

THE PANTHER POST

"Sponsored by The New Lexington 21st Century After School Programs."

Historic Barn

New Lexington FFA and Businesses Partner Together to Restore Historic Barn

The New Lexington FFA recently leased the old barn across from the fairgrounds to use for classroom activities. Our goal for this barn is to allow the students to experience hands on activities with the animals as well as having a place for them during the Perry County Fair. The FFA as well as other businesses from around the county are working on rebuilding the fence, replacing the windows with other historic windows, and designing a plan for the interior of the barn. The barn has provided the perfect opportunity for all students to advance in certain agricultural fields. Mrs. Foster's classes will be based primarily around the barn area. Her classes are working together to design the stall layout, the type of fencing, and other important necessities. Mr. Lindey's classes will spend most of their time working with the acreage of the property. We will farm on the property, planting vegetables such as lettuce and tomatoes that can be used in the school lunches. Lastly, Mr. Finck's classes will be focusing around the pond area, trees, and other vegetation. This achievement is a huge step for the New Lexington FFA Chapter. Be sure to look for these upcoming changes to the barn.

Natalie Dunn, FFA Reporter
New Lexington FFA Reporter

MIDDLE SCHOOL FCCLA MEMBERS DON'T MESS AROUND! IN SCHOOL FOR 9 DAYS AND BLESSINGS IN A BACKPACK, BIB, IS UP AND ROLLING!

Three FCCLA members packed 70 sacks of food this first week of school. Participating members were Gwen Patterson, Ta Tiana Abram, and Reese Buckley. They are under the instruction of Karen Curry. Thank you girls!!

Mr. David Hansen shares plans for the FFA Instructor, Rob Brokaw, with FFA Heather Foster, left, shares ideas and Barn and surrounding area with local members, and Natalie Dunn share plans for half of the Barn to interested and state officials. FFA members were ideas and potential programming onlookers. on hand to provide tours for those with those attending touring the Barn and surrounding land.

New Adventures!

Freshman are welcomed to the NLHS @ Freshman Orientation!

Summertime Fun!

There was plenty of fun this summer at the Perry County Fair! Our AG students showed their fair animals with great success.

Ben Groves with his Turkey!

Andrea Groves is showing her market turkey and sold it for $175! Her turkey weighed over 40 pounds! Imagine how good that Thanksgiving turkey would have tasted!

Colton Seals with his Market Hog!

Quentin Webb arrived to orientation to a welcome committee.

David Fox, ready for a new year, anticipates great things!

Freshman Cheerleaders Olivia Crooks and Nikki Wood with Dylan Erwin are welcomed to Freshman orientation.

New Freshmen get their schedules on orientation night and prepare to walk through a routinely scheduled day the HS. Knowing where everything is and where rooms are on the first day of school is a must Logyn Ratliff, Taylor Carson, Olivia Crooks, Nikki Woods and Chance Schooley pass through the library during orientation at the High School. Excitement is in the air for new beginnings!

Mrs. Cook's 2nd Grade Class

Pictured are Jaxson Newlon, Carter Hahn, and Audrey Binkley.

Students ushered in a new school year making mini SMORES! These students are kicking off a new unit of informational writing. Students will research, read, interpret and share their findings in their writing.

SOLAR ECLIPSE

New Lexington Elementary and Middle School teachers took some time out of teacher workday to view the solar eclipse.

Brooke Hartley, Janice Coleman and Jessica Wilson share in a historic moment!

Ashley Stenson, Taylor Langreder, and Cortney Fulk zero in on the eclipse.

Teachers Prepare For A New Year

Cultivating Strong Informative and Argumentative Writers Professional Development Provided by Smekens Educational Solutions

A skill so essential to success and pertinent to doing well in school and in work settings, writing, is not easy to teach. Nor is writing an easy skill to learn. Teachers from the entire district spent several days learning strategies to share with students in order to help students become skilled writers.

Teachers In the News

New Lex High School teacher, Shannon Hunt, with Principal Chuck Byers and Superintendent Casey Coffey, received the MVESC Outstanding Educator Award from MVESC Superintendent David Branch (far left). Congratulations Miss Hunt!